Join the Patient and Family Advisory Council.

At Loring Hospital, our Patient & Family Advisory Council (PFAC) is a team of patients, family members, and staff working side-by-side to make care the best it can be. We share ideas, listen to each other's stories, and work together with honesty, kindness, and understanding so every voice is heard. By building trust and keeping conversations open, we help make sure care truly reflects what matters most to our patients and families.

We're here to spark new ideas, support positive changes, and keep Loring Hospital a welcoming place where people feel cared for, respected, and valued. Together, we're shaping a hospital experience that's not only close to home but also close to the heart.

Why are Advisors important?

Their voice will up us identify and address patient and family needs in all aspects of care, improve access, ensure clear, respectful communication, simplify processes, and make it easier to navigate the healthcare system.

What Does the Advisory Council Do?

The Advisory Council...

- Promotes a collaborative relationship between patients, family and healthcare team members.
- Channels information, needs and concerns for patient and family-centered care to team members.
- Actively recommends and helps to implement change.
- Provides an opportunity for the healthcare team to hear the voice of patients and families.
- Advisors help review or create materials like websites, forms, health information handouts, and educational/informational materials.

The Patient Family Advisory Council is looking for people who are:

- Committed, reliable, trustworthy and believe their investment of time can make a difference.
- A current or former Loring patient or a family member of a patient within the past five years, that is over the age of 18.
- Have the ability to help providers and staff better understand the patient/family perspective.
- Willing to share their Loring Hospital stories, and also think beyond their own personal experiences.
- Good listeners who respect other opinions and perspectives.
- Bring a positive, solution oriented attitude to discussions.
